

Juan Pablo Lira

Principal, Focus Lighting

Juan Pablo is a Principal at Focus Lighting, having joined the team in 2003 after working in Chile as an architect and lighting designer. Since then, Juan Pablo has worked on a range of award-winning projects including TAO Downtown and Hollywood, Chicago, Jenny Sabin's "Lumen" installation at MoMA PS1, Omnia Nightclub in Las Vegas, and the University of Pennsylvania's new Penovation Center, to name a few. With a passion for the arts, JP designs through an eccentric and curious lens that often translates into his lighting designs. This, combined with his highly-critical eye, has contributed to the success of many projects. Currently, Juan Pablo's projects include the new DLF Chanakya high end retail Mall in Cyber Park, India; Canada's National Holocaust Monument in Ottawa, a new RPM restaurant and event space on the Chicago Riverwalk and new Omnia nightclub in Jakarta.
